

EXCITEMENT AT LA CRESCENTA

Mr. Fowler and Group of Workmen Extinguish Fire Passing Automobile

La Crescenta was treated to a little excitement this morning when a touring car going at a scandalous rate of speed came down the street in front of the Fowler place, with the top, which was down, in a glorious blaze and the driver entirely unconscious of the fact. A bunch of men, including Mr. Fowler, signalled a stop and put out the fire with a hose which chanced to be handy. Mr. Fowler made such a fine record for efficiency, getting soaked in the process, that if La Crescenta is ever incorporated he should be made fire chief. The conflagration is supposed to have started from the spark of a cigar fanned by the rapid pace.

Mr. Fowler is given credit for doing considerable to put La Crescenta on the map by efforts he is making to develop into a beautiful show place ten of fifteen acres he owns there. He is remodelling the stone house on the property and carrying out elaborate plans in landscape gardening. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fowler are very fond of flowers, especially roses, and it is their intention to have one of the finest rose gardens in Southern California. For street trees on the Los Angeles street side they are using Acacia Dalbata and on the private driveway camphor trees interspersed with Phoenix Canariensis palms. They will also use groups of palms of different varieties in their grounds.

The present residence of the Fowlers in is Chicago, La Crescenta being their winter home, but eventually their permanent abiding place.

Like all territory in and contiguous to Glendale, there is great activity in real estate and many new residents are coming to La Crescenta. From the activity at Los Angeles and Honolulu streets it seems probable that it will become a business center in the near future.

ENJOYABLE DAY AT CONVENTION

Glendale women in attendance at yesterday's session of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs report a most profitable and enjoyable day.

Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley presided over yesterday morning's session which was devoted to art. "Art for the People" was ably handled by C. P. Townsley, director of the Otis Art Institute, Los Angeles. Painting, he said, depends on the soul and the vision of the artist.

Assembly singing was led by Arthur Farwell of New York.

"Musical Evolution of Today," was the subject of an address by Mr. Farwell, who believes music to be the greatest power in the spiritual growth of a nation. He eulogized Harry Barnhardt of Chicago, whom he called the father of community singing. Music, he said, helped much in selling Liberty bonds, maintaining the morale of the soldiers, welding together the souls of those who remained at home. Music is the property of humanity; it should not be commercialized.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of Los Angeles Ebell, offered five resolutions which were to be acted upon at today's session.

Excellent reports were read by the presidents of various clubs.

The first number of the afternoon session was Miss Jasmine Britton's address on "The Child and the Book."

The keynote of Rev. G. Bromley Oxnan's masterly address was his conviction that "the goal of social living is the solidarity of brotherhood." The supremacy of the common good, said the speaker, should be instilled in the hearts of children.

"Woman and Literature" was the topic of Mrs. Henry Goodcell, who deplored the extensive reading of light literature and spoke of reading as "a lost art."

A chorus composed of 80 members of the Hollywood Woman's Club provided the music for the afternoon and there was community singing, also, led by Professor Hugo Kirchhofer.

Among Glendale ladies in attendance were Mes. C. E. Hutchinson, Ella Richardson, R. W. Meeker, Mabel Franklin Ocker and Miss Eva Daniels.

PITY FOR CLARA GREAT

(By International News Service)

EMMETSBURG, La., April 21.

—H. P. Johnson is divorced from his wife today because Mrs. Johnson wrote to a Des Moines newspaper offering to serve the sentence of Clara Smith Hamon in case the latter were convicted of the slaying of Jake L. Hamon. Judge Lee granted Johnson an absolute decree of divorce.

Mrs. Johnson's letter said: "My pity for Clara is great because I know what devils some men are."

THE INHERITANCE OF THE CHRISTIAN

At the evangelistic meeting in the big tabernacle on Harvard and Orange this morning, the subject was "Christian Inheritance."

In beginning his discourse Rev. Brown quoted the sayings of Paul: "Pray without ceasing. Give thanks always." Rejoice evermore.

"Is it possible to obtain this inheritance?" he asked. "Yes, it is waiting, whether you claim it or whether you do as did the immigrant who spent all his money but a small amount for a ticket and then lived on crackers and cheese all the way over oblivious of the fact that his ticket included meals."

"This world has too little joy. We are spending more money than ever before yet few are happy. The word of God teaches that the Christian should be full of joy. The real foundation of a joyous, sunshiny, fruit-bearing life is prayer and praise."

At the meeting tomorrow morning arrangements will be perfected to place cards advertising the meetings in every home in Glendale.

On Sunday morning the churches participating in the Brown evangelistic meetings will give up their own services in the individual churches and unite in a great service in the tabernacle at the corner of Orange and Harvard.

The Sunday schools will meet at the usual time and places but will dismiss early so that all may have ample time to reach the tabernacle for the morning service. The people of the different participating churches are urged to take their usual weekly offering envelopes to the tabernacle and place them in the "skillets." After the service they will be segregated and given to the various church treasurers.

This service on Sunday morning promises to be one of the greatest ever held in Glendale. The audiences are increasing from day to day and already the question of increasing the size of the tabernacle is being seriously considered.

CHARACTER READING SUBJECT OF LECTURE

The introductory lecture of a series of seven, on character reading, was given in the Glendale commercial school last evening by Homer M. Baker. Mr. Baker divides all humanity into five general types: Nutritive, thoracic, muscular, osseous and cerebral. To decide a man's type, or predominance of type, if he be a composite, as most men are, he observes the body, shape of head, hands, movements, voice and speech of his subject. He asserts that certain habits are inheritances of certain types and that each type is prone to certain diseases.

Mr. Baker contends that since success consists in finding your place and filling it and since "the other fellow" can help or hinder you, a study of the other fellow's characteristics and habits is vital to your adaptation to your environment and a vital adjunct to your progress toward your goal.

The next lecture, which will be held on Saturday evening, treats of the dominant mental characteristic of each type.

L. G. SCOVERN BUYS PROPERTY ON BRAND

L. G. Scovern has gotten into the game of buying real estate on Brand boulevard. He has just purchased 145 feet at the northeast corner of Brand and Garfield. He says he has bought it as an anchor to windward and that he has no present intention of improving it with a building.

'KILLING OF LIONS' BEFORE HARVEST

The Theme at Tonight's Meeting Will Be "Judge Lot and Family"—Pastors, Officers and Teachers Will Hold Meeting in Inquiry Room

WORDS OF APPRECIATION FOR WEED CUTTING

Otis Ironmonger Gave History of the Song Chosen for His Solo Number, Which Was Well Adapted to His Voice and Pleases Large Audience

On Wednesday night the gospel call again drew a big audience to the tabernacle. It was an audience so evenly divided between men and women as to make a wonderful chorus when they united in the haunting refrains of the simple gospel songs. To stand in the rear of the building and just listen was worth many times the cost of the contribution the majority of the attendants deposited in the skillet collection and were the auditorium long to remain in such a music-loving city as Glendale, one might look for property in a neighborhood to make as sensational advances as have been made on Brand boulevard.

The opening invocation was made by Rev. Brink of the Central avenue Methodist church. There were the usual announcements—the morning service at 10 o'clock, a special woman's meeting at 3:30, the theme of tonight's address: "Judge Lot and the Lot Family," a request for the pastors, officers, teachers and heads of departments of the various churches to meet in the inquiry room at the close of the meeting to hear the plans for the evangelistic campaign. There was also a word of appreciation from the preacher for the work done in cutting the wild oat crop from around the building, with a request for more service along the same line and in addition water, to pack the sand in the paths to the doors.

Otis Ironmonger gave the history of the song chosen for his solo number, which was well adapted to display the rare qualities of his magnificent voice.

The theme of the evening's address "Killing Lions" was a clever and evidently convincing (judging from the "amens" of assent) exposition of some of the obstacles in the path of cooperative evangelistic work which the preacher thinks must be removed before the results for which he is hoping can be attained. His text was taken from the 14th chapter of the book of Judges, beginning with the fifth verse, wherein is described the going down of Samson to Timnath where "a young lion roared against him, and the spirit of the Lord came upon him and he rent him as a kid and he had nothing in his hands."

Later, on a return journey, "he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion and behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass. And he took thereof in his hands and went on, eating, and came to his father and mother and he gave them."

In his application of the lessons to be drawn from Samson's courage and prompt action, the evangelist said:

LESSON IN COLORS

When Mrs. Henry Sheets, president of the Pomona Ebell Club, rose at the annual press luncheon of the district federation to greet the 150 delegates seated about the tables, she remarked, "In coloring your pen pictures of Pomona we trust you will not make your impressions blue."

At the close of the afternoon's session the guests were taken on a drive to beautiful Inspiration Point; they also enjoyed a visit to the home and grounds of Mr. Reynolds, publisher of Harold Bell Wright's books.

'WHITE RIBBONERS' IN CONVENTION

The 37th annual convention of the Los Angeles county Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened at 10 o'clock, yesterday morning, in the Universalist church at Pasadena.

Appropriate to a convention of "White Ribboners," masses of beautiful white flowers—lilies, roses, snowballs and syringas—commingled with ferns in the decoration of the church. Mrs. Marie Yeoman, county president, opened the session. In the unavoidable absence of the pastor of the church, Rev. Carl Henry, Miss Young, a member of his congregation, welcomed the delegates. Her Scripture reading, the 146th Psalm, and her prayer were helpful and appropriate to the opening of the convention.

The song service was led by Mrs. Hattie C. Young of Long Beach, was enthusiastic and full of earnest purpose.

Gratifying reports of officers, committees and branches occupied a large portion of the morning session and there was an impressive memorial service for the 35 members who have passed on since the last convention.

The president, Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman, gave her annual address. Her subject was "The Demand of the Age." She was introduced by Mrs. Hattie C. Young in her usual graceful way.

The theme of the afternoon session was "The Child in Our Midst." Different phases of this subject were handled as follows: Miss Stickney spoke of "Woman in Industry" as related to the welfare of the child; Mrs. Weinen's topic was "Sunday Schools"; Miss Pauline Dinwiddie's, "Moral Contests"; Mrs. Edna Gastrich Filmore spoke on "Scientific Temperance Instruction"; Dr. Libbie W. Ashcroft, on "Child Welfare"; Miss Gregg, state superintendent of this department, spoke on the same subject; the children's demonstration was in charge of Mrs. Ellen Dayton Blair.

Piano solos by Alvin Smith, 11 years old, were a delightful diversion and a Mother Goose number by the L. T. L. of Lincoln avenue, Pasadena, was also much enjoyed.

Among Glendale residents who attended were Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman county president; Mrs. Lily Richard son, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louise Norton, assisting recording secretary; Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president Glendale Union; Mrs. Edith Dockery, vice president Glendale Union; Mrs. Annie Sipple, corresponding secretary Glendale Union; Mrs. Marie Gifford, recording secretary; Mrs. Jennie Mottern, treasurer; Mrs. Nannie Palmer, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Hattie Gaylord, superintendent Sabbath observance; Mes. SCHOOL UNIFORMS BURNING QUESTION

Arguments Are Presented to Mothers at High School P-T. A. Meeting

At the high school P-T. A. there are generally plenty of matters to be discussed of keen local interest and the session held Wednesday afternoon in the school cafeteria was no exception in this respect. Mrs. Yarrick presided and Mrs. A. H. Brown took the minutes.

Proposed Bond Issue

Rev. Clifford Cole, member of the "Committee of Nineteen" urged support of the proposed bond issue of $200,000 or thereabouts to relieve congestion in the grade schools. He indicated that the committee had studied all phases of the question and all solutions presented and that the report epitomized their conclusions of what must be done and the least possible expenditure of money to meet the situation. He reminded his audience that there has been little or no building to increase the capacity of schools in quite a term of years, the Broadway school having merely replaced another decaying building. The imperative necessity for a junior high school between Intermediate and Ceritos to relieve both schools was The two plans that are being considering the high school property in that connection.

Miss Knight, girls' gymnasium instructor, was introduced and spoke of the debate now going on among the girls of the school relative to dress. The two plans that are being considered she proposed to have put before the mothers by three girls, one of whom would advocate a uniform of middie and skirt, one the modified dress, and the third a summary of arguments on both sides. In conformity with this plan Adele Miles was introduced and talked on "Modified Dress" as opposed to uniform dress. She mentioned visits which delegates from the school had made to Long Beach High where the same question is being considered and reported that of the ballots taken $26 were for simplified dress and but 263 for the uniforms. She mentioned the rules governing girls' dress which have been adopted by the dress committee which was made up of two members from each of the four classes of the school, two members of the faculty and of the Girls' League, and two from the high school P-T. A. These rules as read by her are:

"No cosmetics, not including powder. No extreme hair dressing or fancy combs. No openwork or lace stockings. No fancy garters conspicuously worn. Only Cuban or low-heeled shoes. Suitable school dress with

"Colorado" at the Glendale Theater

"Colorado," a photodrama from the famous stage play of the same name by Augustus Thomas, will be the principal attraction at the Glendale theater, starting today.

The Universal screen offering furnishes a starring vehicle for Frank Mayo, who was last seen in "Honor Bound" and "Tiger True," two of his recent productions.

In its theme "Colorado" follows closely the stage success, but with modern and highly dramatic variations introduced by Reeves Eason, the director.

GIRLS CAN'T FOOL DEAN R. HUNTER OF NEW YORK UNIVERSITY FACULTY

By MARGERY REX
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 21.—Women may cram their weak feminine minds full of mere book knowledge, and pass examinations with higher marks than men. The poor things are really very patient and industrious, and thereby are able to befuddle many men in this old world.

But the girls can't fool Dean R. Turner, of the Washington square branch of the New York University. He has exposed woman's weak intellectual powers to the faculty of that institution in a few well chosen phrases. His immediate provocation for the expose, and it is no secret may be traced to the alarming fact that statistics, both in his own college and others, prove women pass higher in examinations than men students. The dean says:

"After all, men are more intellectual than women, examination papers or no examination papers. Women have better memories and study harder, that's all.

"In tasks requiring patience and industry women win out. But when a man is both patient and industrious he beats a woman any day.

"Take cooking, for instance. A woman when she cooks uses the same old stove in the same old way as she has always done. A man gets impatient and invents a stove that will do the same work better in half the time.

"Who are the chefs at the great hotels? Women? No, men! And as for sewing. Who are the best known clothing designers and ladies' tailors in Paris? Men."

Women's Champion Replies

But the women of New York University are not without a strong champion in their own dean, Dr. Aris-tine P. Munn-Recht, graduate of Bryn Mawr and John Hopkins University, doctor of medicine, bachelor of arts, wife, mother and housekeeper.

"Men more intellectual than women?" she smiled. "Dean Turner said so?"

"It all depends on his definition of intellect. If one means the camera-plate type of memory, which merely registers facts and puts them down on an examination paper, that quality may be in the possession of either man or woman.

"Perhaps it is more common to woman, because through centuries she has been obliged to keep careful 'track' of the pronouncements of her lord and master.

"If intellect means ability to judge, reason and deduce from facts woman is man's superior.

"Women have more initiative and do not like to go through the same routine day after day.

"Women add intuition to their intellectual powers—and the combination assists deduction. Women thereby rise to emergencies better than men, because it takes an agile mind to cope with a crisis in affairs.

"Men may fill one calling, such as that of engineer or carpenter, for instance. Woman cooks, sews, nurses, acts as housemaid and often has a job outside her home as well.

"Matilda, wife of William the Conqueror, wove the beautiful Bayeux tapestries. From that day to this all embroidery and lace stitches, which show exceedingly fertile minds, have been conceived by women.

Women's Standing in Classes

"Women here usually stand in the first third of the class—in coeducational classes. That is, the majority of the women do.

"Why is it that men who have led their classes are so often never heard of after they graduated?"

"Since when did literature, language and other similar studies require more concentration and memory than science and mathematics?"

"If women excel in the former it is because those studies possess a human interest and offer a chance to express personality which is lacking in the cut and dried sciences.

"I am not a fashion expert, but know that many of the great designers of women's clothes are women—Madame Paquin, Callot, Soeurs, Vionnet and Lady Duff Gordon, known as 'Lucille.'

"A different situation presents itself in Paris, for instance, because there dressmaking establishments, like so many concerns in France, are run by husband and wife together, instead of two men partners. The wife often supervises the business and the husband plays a part similar to that of a traveling salesman, or a master of ceremonies who meets the trade.

"As far as cooking is concerned, the pastry cooks and vegetable cooks in hotels are nearly always women. The woman housekeeper usually 'runs' the chef. There are many women today operating hotels successfully.

Reason for Using Old Stoves

"Dean Turner says women use the same old stoves while men invent new ones. If women do this it is because the man of the family often hasn't enough intellect to get cash to buy a new one.

"Women have had so much important work to do that they have not taken time to work out improvements and to perfect labor-saving devices. This is because women are the self-sacrificing members of the race, and will work for the betterment of every one else first.

"As for man's vaunted power with the dressmaking needle and his taste in that direction, what girl who has spent her hard-earned savings upon a gown cut by a master hand has not heard her best beau speak admiringly of some frump in a dress that looked as if cut by the swing of a woodman's hatchet, but who has had presence of mind to pin a red rose or a frill upon it?"

"Every maker of feminine creations realizes too that upon the wearer depends the success of the frocks. A great gown becomes null and void unless worn by a woman who knows how to carry it."

CROWBAR DRIVEN THROUGH SKULL

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, April 21.—The fact that a crowbar was driven through a man's skull here without causing death was cited today by Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, eminent alienist commenting on the removal of a bullet from the brain of a prisoner at Sing Sing in an effort to cure him of suicidal mania.

Years later, just before he died, the man willed his head to the Harvard Medical School. The skull is at Warren Museum and is used in lectures almost daily.

Dr. Briggs said the man was holding the crowbar, which was being struck by another man with a sledge hammer. The man moved until his chin was directly over the top of the bar. Not noticing the change in position of his fellowworker the man with the hammer struck him a smashing blow on the head, driving the bar upward from the chin through the head and out of the top of the skull. Dr. Warren, the eminent surgeon, performed an operation, removing the bar and inserting a silver plate at the point in the skull where the crowbar emerged. The man lived many years.

The skull now reposes at Warren Museum with an iron bar running through it to illustrate to students just how the accident occurred.

Dr. Briggs, Dr. George M. Kline, head of the State Department of Mental Diseases, and City Health Commissioner Woodward, all said that only time can tell whether the Sing Sing prisoner will be cured of epilepsy and suicidal mania by the removal of the bullet.

MUST WAIT SEVEN YEARS FOR PAPERS

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 21.—Seven years from now, if he behaves himself, James Harold, alias "Jimmy Vinci," may become an American citizen.

Harold was convicted as driver of the car used by the slayers of "Mossy" Enright, a Chicago labor leader. He came before Judge Harry B. Miller in the circuit court in the final hearing on his application for citizenship papers.

"Aren't you the man convicted in the Enright killing?" Judge Miller asked.

"Yes," Harold replied, "but the supreme court reversed my case without remanding it. I'm all out of trouble now. I feel I'm entitled to citizenship."

"You are under a wrong impression," the judge answered. "You'll have to put yourself on probation for seven years. If at the end of that time you have led a clean life you may become a citizen of the United States."

GREEK LEAVES $20,000 TO POOR OF HOME CITY

(By International News Service)

DENVER, April 21.—Greek maids in isolated villages of their homeland will be made happy by provisions of the will of Peter Danicks, Denver restaurateur, who died here recently.

Poor girls in Divry, province of Archaia and Elis, Greece, will not be humiliated because of a lack of dowry to present to their prospective husbands, as long as Danicks' $20,000 gift lasts.

"Only One Ada Roach"

This Is Familiar Saying About Noted Entertainer Who Comes to Chautauqua With Ruth Freeman

"Only one Ada Roach" has grown to be a familiar saying in the Chautauqua world. This infallible entertainer has truly reached the top round in her profession. When Ada Roach smiles, every one smiles with her; when she sings, every heart sings with her; her stories and impersonations have the sparkle of true genius.

Ruth Freeman, "running mate" with Ada Roach for years, is abundantly able to present a complete program alone. She combines real talent as a violinist with exceptional ability and as an unusual artist in mimicry and dialect numbers.

School Uniforms Is Burning Question

modest neck line and of modest length."

She explained that for the enforcement of these rules a box had been provided into which anonymous reports of girls who were breaking the rules could be dropped. These reports were referred to the gymnasium teacher who conferred with the girl complained of. If she persisted in breaking the rules she was summoned before the committee and asked to sign a slip stating she was knowingly breaking the rules and would cease to do so. If she continued to violate the covenant, her case was brought to the faculty and the board of trustees who had indorsed the rules and agreed to support them, and the dismissal of the girl was recommended. The monotony of a uniform was the chief objection raised by most girls, she said, also the difficulty of maintaining a supply of clean middies and keeping the skirts well pressed and clean.

Miss Bettie Fell defended the uniform dress. She gave interesting figures relative to cost and made some points which were applauded by mothers, saying for instance that she thought the uniform accentuated a girl's individuality because you learned to know her by her face rather than by her dress. Comfort was mentioned as one of the advantages, also, she said, it did away with the problem "What shall I wear today?" and it created a wonderful feeling of democracy. It has been a great success, she stated in Redondo, Polytechnic and Los Angeles high and in Pasadena high, especially in the school last named.

Margery Yarrick summed up the arguments but seemed to lean to the modified dress.

In the discussion which followed mothers and teachers appeared to be in agreement for the most part on the proposition to let the girls of the school work out the problem, although a vote was taken which indicated that sentiment favored the uniform.

Request for Mrs. Moyle

Mrs. J. G. Huntley addressed the chair and said she had many opportunities to converse with girls of the school and their mothers and she felt it a tragedy that today we are without the teacher so dearly loved who was dean of girls in the high school for so many years and she therefore moved that the chair appoint a committee of two of which the president should be one, to confer with the board of high school trustees and urge upon them the need for Mrs. Moyle in this school and ask them to request her to return next year. The motion was unanimously carried and Mrs. Yarrick asked Mrs. Huntley to serve with her.

J. S. Caldwell of the High Y. of Los Angeles made an excellent talk on boys in high schools. He stated that the auto is one of the greatest problems in connection with boys. Another problem is money, the sons of rich fathers being ruined by having too much of it. A third problem to be dealt with is "being out at night." Said he: "It isn't a boy problem, it's a man problem. We need fathers who will take their share of responsibility." Tobacco was mentioned as another problem. He then read some very interesting communications from High Y. boys embodying their ideas on the leading problems in boys' lives, also their ideas on girls, their dress and the attitude they should maintain toward boys.

It was all so highly entertaining and suggestive that the meeting was prolonged beyond the usual closing hour and the mothers in attendance were given many thoughts to carry home with them.

FIRM ATTITUDE IS APPROVED

(By International News Service)

TOKIO, April 21.—The cabinet council today approved the "firm attitude" of the foreign office in the controversy with the United States over the island of Yap.

Marquis Okuma, former prime minister, is quoted in an interview published in Hochi, as saying:

"The action of the United States on Yap is illogical and incomprehensible. I cannot approve of America's attitude. It is overbearing. The question was settled by the supreme council and America did not then protest against the settlement."

A notable sale was made by Jack Lucas, real estate agent at 309 South Brand, recently. It was the transfer of Thomas Joyce's beautiful new residence property at 622 North Jackson to J. M. Wilson, a wealthy, retired lumberman of Raymond, Wash. This is one of the finest home places in Glendale, the interior of the house being a perfect gem. The garage is better than many a dwelling house with bathroom, toilet, laundry room, shelves, etc. Mr. Wilson has a wife and two children. He takes possession May 1.

Another good sale made by Mr. Lucas was the Paul Cadwell home at 4233 Laclede avenue to Mrs. Maurice Feary of 1024 South San Fernando road.

JAP DISTRUST OF AMERICA GROWS

Purchases in Kamchatka Construed as Revealing American Military Move

By DUKE N. PARRY
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, April 21.—Lieutenant-General Baron Gichi Tanaka, minister of war for Japan, in an interview given the representative of the International News Service in Tokio recently, denied frequently recurring reports in America and Japan that this country entertains territorial ambitions in Siberia. One by one the minister of war took up the various actions of Japanese troops, and their commanders in Siberia, and finally he took up for discussion the attitude of the headquarters' staff in Tokio, and finally he discussed the charge that "militarists of Tokio" control the government of the empire.

"It has been frequently stated here, as elsewhere," said General Tanaka, "that Japan has no territorial ambitions in Siberia. Replies to this report have been made by Premier Hara, in the diet, and by various others occupying positions of authority."

"The true object of our troops stationed there today is to protect Japanese subjects and to maintain communications. We desire sincerely to withdraw our men from this section just the moment that a stable Russian government is established, but we cannot withdraw until Japanese subjects and property there are made safe. The idea advanced in some quarters that we have ambitions to keep our troops there permanently is absurd."

Langdon Incident Proves Thorn

The minister of war is busy almost every day now with questions directed at him in the imperial diet regarding the maintenance of troops in Siberia. The Langdon case, recently settled amicably by Japan, has given critics of the war department an opportunity to become more caustic in their speeches against General Tanaka and the party that he represents. In seeking to aid in the overthrow of the Hara ministry by embarrassing the head of the war department the members of the opposition have given the Langdon case, the charge that Japan is dominated by militaristic forces, that soldiers are maintained in Siberia while trade pacts with that part of the world are neglected, fullest mention.

"The minister of war has the deepest sympathy for the family of Lieutenant Langdon," said General Tanaka in his interview. "We feel that there is nothing more that can be said regarding this case, but the United States can be assured that the judgment of the courtmartial, which recommended that punishment be given those officers responsible for the sentry's action will be carried out. This will not be interfered with by any opposition that is made by members of the Reservists Association in Tokio."

Korea Looks to Siberia

Reports that the spread of the bolshevik rule are reaching out into Manchuria and toward Korea are borne out by frequent news items that manage to emanate from the Korean cities. While much of this is censored by Japanese, it is known that malcontent Koreans are now working with bolsheviks in their plots to injure Japan. Seven hundred Korean malcontents recently joined with bolshevik forces in Manchuria in an effort to spread the influence of the Korean "provisional government" through whatever means were at hand.

General Tanaka believes that the bolshevik influence is still a great menace to Japanese property interests in Siberia. "The bolshevik influence extends into every corner of Siberia," said the minister of war, "except in the vicinity of Vladivostok and Nikolaevsk, where are stationed the two divisions of Japanese troops." The principles of the bolshevik are spreading into Mongolia and Manchuria at an alarming rate. Koreans are being made the tools of these agents, and consequently the Japanese are having difficulty in their desire to maintain order in both Korea and Chientao.

Japanese Distrust of America

The opinion that obtains in Japan regarding the contracts of Washington D. Vanderlip is that Vanderlip sought trade concessions, not for financial gains, but as military assets with which war could be better waged with Japan. This report as carried in a story from the Tokio Asahi Shimbun's correspondent in Moscow reads:

"A statement attributed to Nikolai Lenin, the bolshevik dictator, quoted that bolshevik as asserting that one reason Vanderlip wanted the Kamchatka leases was that the United

MRS. WHITE'S VISIT TO SACRAMENTO

With Assemblyman White Is Guest at Mansion of Governor

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Wednesday morning Mrs. John Robert White returned from a four days' visit with Assemblyman White in Sacramento. The outing did her a great deal of good after her close confinement at the bedside of her son Kenneth, who is now so much better that she felt willing to leave him in the care of competent nurses. Everywhere she went among the friends she met last year were inquiries about Kenneth and Robert, both of whom have been with their father to the capital and learned to know many of the legislators.

Tuesday the Whites were luncheon guests of the governor and his lady in the fine old gubernatorial mansion, so dignified in architecture in many ways with its high ceiling, nobly proportioned rooms, spacious corridors and curved stairways. Mrs. White said she tried to think how it would look in floral garnishings for the wedding of the daughter of the house, Mrs. Zane, who is to be married there in a few days.

Besides the Whites, covers were laid for Senator and Mrs. Carr, of Pasadena; Senator and Mrs. Harris, who have worked so hard for the passage of the prohibition enforcement measure similar to the Volstead act; Assemblyman and Mrs. Cline, Assemblyman Colburn and the Governor and Mrs. Stephens. The table was richly appointed with very beautiful dishes of beaten silver and was centered with fine roses, but the meal was comparatively informal.

Wednesday was a great day for our representative, according to Mrs. White, because the 32 governmental efficiency bills sometimes referred to as the governor's bills but better known as the White bills because of the time and work he has spent upon them, were reported out of committee. When Assemblyman White first introduced them there were eight, but they have grown by amendment to 32. They represent reductions in commissions and departments, besides retrenchments in many other lines, Mrs. White says. As now presented they are the result of many compromises and close figuring.

Mr. White's bill to limit the candidacy of an office seeker to the political party with which he was last affiliated, which passed the assembly with a good margin of votes, was defeated in the senate, a great disappointment to him and others.

STRICKLAND BOYS AT BROWN MEETING

Wednesday night, boys from the Strickland home at Annandale, where Rev. Rex C. Kelley is putting on a class in citizenship, attended the Brown evangelistic meeting to the number of 61. They were brought over in autos furnished by Glendale people, and accompanied by their teachers, five students of Occidental. On arrival at the tabernacle they made it ring with their yells, led by Sutherland, Oxy's yell leader, who is also one of their group leaders. They have been practicing for some time on songs to be sung in the Brown meetings. One of these they sang last night and did it so well that each boy was presented with a testament.

Earlier in the evening the Strickland leaders and the leaders of the Y. M. C. A. groups were entertained at dinner by Rex C. Kelley and wife, at their home at 1109 North Louise street.

"So your pa says I'm half baked, eh?"

"Yes an' he used to say you was stewed, too."

"I have a book here entitled 'The Successful Chicken Raiser,'" began the book agent.

"Don't want it," said Uncle Si. "All my children are boys."

States government could use this section as a naval base against Japan in the event of a war between Japan and America.

"If the soviet government had consented to sell Kamchatka to the Americans the American government would have gladly recognized the soviet," Lenin is quoted as saying.

The publication of these reports gives some idea of the distrust with which some Japanese look upon Americans. General Tanaka, in his interview, was inclined to look upon the establishment of trade connections by Vanderlip as not reliable. But it is a known fact that the newspapers of the country, which are among the most democratic influences in Japan today, do not hesitate to speak of America, and the American trade expansion, as a menace to the power of the Japanese empire.

TOO MUCH SPENT ON LUXURIES

Amount Spent for Cosmetics and Tobacco Ten Times More Than Learning

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Ten times as much money every year for luxuries as for education!

That is what is wrong with the educational system in the United States, according to Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, who, on the eve of the assembling of the new congress under a brand new administration has deemed the time propitious to invite attention to the fact that American women spend each year almost as much for perfume, powder and cosmetics as is spent in the whole country on public instruction.

"We think we believe in education," said Dr. Claxton. "We talk much about it and many of us have believed that we pay much for it; that it in fact constitutes a very great burden if indeed it is not our chief burden. No doubt we do believe in education in a way, but we have not and do not pay much for it."

Spent Less Than Billion

Dr. Claxton backs up his argument that we pay very little for public education with some rather startling and illuminating figures. For instance, in 1918, the last year on which figures are available, he shows that the total expended for public education in the United States was somewhat less than $1,000,000,000. Figuring on the basis of 100,000,000 population, that amounts to about $10 a head.

Two years later, according to Dr. Claxton, in 1920, American women spent on face powder, perfume and cosmetics alone the not inconsiderable sum of $750,000,000, while American men (and women, too, it is presumed) spent on cigars the sum of $800,000,000. For cigars there went $510,000,000 and for tobacco in other forms another $800,000,000, making in all $2,100,000,000 which went for tobacco in a single year, or more than twice the amount that was expended on education.

Luxuries Outdistance Earning

The American people spent half a billion for jewelry in 1920 while they were spending a billion for education, and in these dry and arid days $350,000,000 went for soft drinks.

But bad as these figures may seem, worse are to come. For "luxurious service"—whatever that may mean—Americans got rid of some $3,000,000,000 last year, and for "joy rides, pleasure resorts and racing," a like amount. Even ice cream and chewing gum have not escaped Dr. Claxton's indicting calculation, and his arithmetic discloses that $250,000,000 was spent for ice cream and $50,000,000 for chewing gum.

"It is interesting," continues Dr. Claxton, "to compare some of these items with the expenditures for education. The amount paid for face powder, cosmetics and perfume is only $12,000,000 less than the total amount expended for public elementary and secondary education in 1918 and within $50,000,000 of twice the total amount of salaries paid teachers in public elementary and secondary schools.

Teachers' Pay Less Than Jewel Sales

"The amount paid for jewelry is nearly $100,000,000 more than the salaries of teachers in elementary and high schools in 1918 and is more than the total of productive funds of all endowed colleges and universities in that year.

"The $50,000,000 for chewing gum is two and a half times the total expenditures for normal schools and almost exactly the same as all state and city appropriations for higher education.

Fur Sales Greater

"The $300,000,000 which went for fur last year is more than twice the cost of all higher education, and the $350,000,000 paid for soft drinks is more than two and a half times as much. It is more than the total value of college and university buildings, including dormitories, in 1918.

"Suppose that in some moment of high enthusiasm and patriotic devotion the people who use tobacco had agreed among themselves to smoke two cigars instead of three, two cigars instead of three, and had paid to the support of the schools the money thus saved for the year, the salaries of teachers in schools of all grades, public and private, could have been increased by more than 120 per cent.

"For tobacco in various forms we paid more than we have paid for higher education since the founding of Harvard college in Massachusetts and William and Mary in Virginia."

FATHER OF 15 FAVORS MARRYING YOUNG

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—Don't hesitate, girls, pick 'em when you're young and lead them to the altar, and the course of true love will then run smooth. That's the advice of Mitchel F. Burch, of Argentine, near here, father of 15 children.

Mr. Burch himself applied for the license which paved the way for the marriage recently performed, uniting his 13-year-old daughter, Goldie, to Jerry M. Hines. Burch's 15-year-old son, John, was married last January to Carmen L. Elliott, a bride of 13. Another daughter, Mrs. Flossie Joplin, of Argentine, was married when she was sweet sixteen.

"Better young than never," says Burch. "If people wait until they get old and cranky they usually end up in the divorce court."

Diseased or healthy cows, clean or dirty milking, careless or proper handling of the product—all these show up in the number of bacteria in the milk.

Grade A Raw Milk is allowed by law a count of 100,000 bacteria per ccm. "Certified" Milk, selling for 28 cents a quart, is allowed 10,000. The count for our Grade A Raw Milk is always under 5000, and often below 2000. There is no escaping the fact that this means clean milk—clean from the cow to you. EZRA SENDS A FABLE

My old friend Ezra wants you to read his fable:
Once upon Time they was one Duck what was Raised with a Family of chickens, mostly Orpingtons and Plimoth Rocks. The Hen mother was as Kind as a mother Could be too a Duck. Butt the Duck knowed he was Differunt from the Rest and they Knowed it to. He would swim out on the Water and Hold his head Under so Long that the Family would be frightened too think may be he would never Come up again. Butt the duck Only laffed heartily at their Fears and Quacked and waddled about while they followed him to see what he wood Do next, if anything. To them he was a Grate thing, him Being so differunt from all. They gayzed on him Admiringly. He grew selfish. If they Didn't give him what he wanted he would go and Hold his head Under the water untill they would be Nearly scared stiff. And he would duck in and Get the Best of everything besides being able to Eat in the water.

One fair day there came to the Place where They all were Together four or Five other Ducks. Imagine if you will the surprise! Too find they was other ducks!

It was not Long his chicken sisters passed him By without one Cluck even: He held His head under water and everything. Butt it was no youse and he joined the other Ducks.

They is two morals to this and one is: It is not what Kind of Duck you are in a Hen yard butt what kind of Duck you Are in a Duck yard.

TRUE VALUE OF FRIENDSHIP

We can never really estimate the true value of friendship. It is a treasury closed to the eye, but from which are drawn the riches of life—love, companionship, esteem, confidence, appreciation, fun, sympathy, assistance and inspiration. Friendship is as a cool draught from the spring to the weary wayfarer, as a light in the window to the homeless, as a strong arm about the feeble, a prayer and a benediction to the dying. Friendship illuminates the souls of men as an unclouded sun brightens the whole world. Next to man's faith in his God is his belief in his friends.

And it is the old friends—the trusted and the tried—those that know you and those that you know—that are the best. An old friend gives you that ease and comfort and pleasure like you find in an old shoe, the old rocking chair or some quaint old room you once knew. There is a kind of satisfaction in old friends that is hard to explain. When you lose an old friend, you know that something has gone out of your life that never can be replaced. It is as the dimming of a little window that lit a secret chamber in your heart. Position, wealth, power, fame may bring the servile and the flatterer, but it requires only kindness, tolerance and honesty to make friends and hold them. Friendship is one of the wonderful, fine privileges given to man; an old friendship is that wonderful privilege that has grown to be a blessing.

BEGIN CENSORSHIP AT HOME

Censorship begins in the home. No moving picture manufacturer intentionally makes films that are unprofitable. No manager of a moving picture can hold his job if his theater does not make money. The money to support this theater comes from you and the rest of the folks in your town. You make public opinion. You create popular appeal. Your continued patronage is an endorsement of the policy of that theater. If you take your children on Friday nights to see a picture that you know they ought not to see, you are to blame. If you do not go and keep your children home, the theater is going to find out without your telling them what is wrong. All the pictures shown in all the theaters could not possibly be made to fit the intelligence or understanding of small children. The older people would not enjoy them. But every parent can and should prevent the children from seeing films that poison the minds or stir an evil consciousness. Just stay away. That is all there is to it. You can measure your own worth as a decent parent by the way you exercise censorship in the home.

INTRICATE RESULT OF COURT RULING

(By International News Service)

SALEM, Mass., April 21.—The matrimonial predicament of Mrs. Bertha J. Knowlton, an attractive young authoress of Swampscott who lost her plea for annulment of her marriage to Arthur Llewellyn Griffiths of Marblehead, explorer and friend of former President Taft, is stranger and more involved than any domestic problem of fiction from her own pen.

Mrs. Knowlton's latest book is said to be based on her two tempestuous marriages between the ages of 15 and 25. Mrs. Knowlton, who prefers the name, although her first husband divorced her six years ago, by the court's ruling is still Griffiths' wife under the Vermont ceremony which Judge Quinn alluded to as a "pretended marriage."

Griffiths had a wife, Mrs. Stella Wood Griffiths of Winslow, Me., whom the court found he had not divorced before marrying Mrs. Knowlton.

And there developed the matrimonial enigma. Either Mrs. Knowlton is still Griffiths' wife, or the years they lived together following the Vermont marriage were not spent in legal wed-

PONTOONS TO BE TRIED FOR SALVAGE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 21.—Weighted down with the combined hopes of a band of adventurers ranging from metropolitan business men to officers of King George's household at Buckingham palace, the little converted French warship Blue Point is nosing her way to Anastasia island, off the coast of Florida, with the Saliger salvage expedition on board to renew the attempt made by the same group to recover the lost steamship Isis, last fall.

Stormy weather caused the abandonment of the effort last October after the expedition had suffered intense punishment and lost much of its paraphernalia, hence the employment at this time of a staunch craft which, during its experience as a mine sweeper and more recently as a steam trawler off the Newfoundland banks, established a reputation as one of the most seaworthy ships afloat. Thirty marine engineers, divers and wreckers are on board with their unique equipment with which they expect to revolutionize present salvage methods throughout the world.

Valued at $1,000,000

Their objective is not far from St. Augustine where the Isis lies completely submerged. The lavish fittings which A. G. Spaulding installed when she was his private yacht and the paraphernalia placed on board by the navy, and more recently by the geodetic survey when that branch of the service took her over, is affording sport for the sharks with which these waters abound. Originally valued at $1,000,000, the Isis offers a rich prize for the salvager, especially in view of the costly scientific apparatus that the geodetic survey installed and the supplies intended for a year's cruise.

The Saliger Ship Salvage Corporation hopes to recover this wealth through the application of a principle that may be seen demonstrated at any beach, river or pond where children are at play. The air bags that the more timid ones thrust under their arms are tiny prototypes of the resilient and collapsible pontoons employed by the Saliger system to obviate the use of costly and immobile cranes, derricks and rigid pontoons. The Saliger air bags are huge affairs resembling in appearance great footballs when inflated, but susceptible of being rolled up like a heavy rug for transport and when lowered alongside of a sunken ship.

Problem of Buoyancy

After a "mechanical mole" has burrowed its way under the ship, drawing the lifting cables in its wake, the pontoons are attached to the latter and pumped full of air, imparting to each great football a buoyancy capable of lifting 25 tons in the water. The size of the ship, of course, determines the number of pontoons, but nothing can resist their lifting power when enough units are employed.

A. B. Saliger, the engineer-inventor in charge of the expedition, expects to have the Isis afloat within three days after work has actually commenced, but as weather is the determining factor his staunch workshop has been coaled and provisioned to battle for months with the elements if necessary. She is equipped with wireless to keep in touch with the world, and a tender will ply back and forth between the wreck and St. Augustine for the same purpose.

The personnel behind the project is as unique as the undertaking itself, including marine and financial men and Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Balfour Haig, quarry to King George of England and a cousin of Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces during the war. All are looking for fortunes from the rights that will develop through the successful outcome of the daring experiment in salvage engineering.

FEMINIST MOVEMENT GROWING IN CHINA

(By International News Service)

PARIS, April 20.—The feminist movement in China has been making tremendous strides since the war, and has just arrived here in charge of 20 young Chinese women sent to France by the Pekin Government for study purposes. Most of them have entered the students' roll at Sorbonne university.

Miss Fume-tcheng has been for years the leader of the woman suffrage movement in China. Though the scion of an old aristocratic family, she was one of the leading figures in the overthrow of the monarchy, risking her life in supplying ammunition to the rebels. As a 17-year-old girl she startled all China by refusing to accept the man whom her family wanted her to marry.

From the Greek come the feminine names, Eudora, meaning "a good gift," Phyllis, "a green bough," and Theodosia, "given by God."

An after-dinner speaker on arising generally remarks that he is not an orator and then takes a half hour to prove it.

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

TO GET BEST RESULTS FROM REFRIGERATOR

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

When I started my housekeeping career one of my first purchases was a refrigerator. Everything went beautifully until the ice bill arrived, and I saw in black and white that it was three times larger than I had expected. I started that very day to observe the refrigerators of my friends, to study my own, and to learn the ins and outs of home refrigeration. I believe I know now how to get the greatest satisfaction at the minimum cost.

My ice-box is of simple construction; the ice-chamber is on one side, while the compartment for foods occupies the other side and the space directly below the ice. The care of this refrigerator is practically the same as that of any other ordinary one.

I find it more economical to have the iceman deliver the number of pounds asked for in one piece instead of in several small ones. At times I have been given four or five small ones. This costs more because the more chunks there are the greater the surface exposed to the air and consequently the more rapid the melting. Very rapid melting is not needed to keep food from spoiling; a steady, continual melting is best.

It pays to keep the ice-box well filled. The more ice there is the more nearly perfect the refrigeration, and there is less meltage, as the air in the food-compartment is kept cool and there is no warm air to melt the ice. The food keeps better, too, because there is very little fluctuation in temperature.

I keep two or three bottles of drinking water in my refrigerator. It is not only more sanitary to drink this than the water to which chipped ice has been added, but it is cheaper. Putting the ice in the pitcher of water is a twofold evil; more ice is used and the water becomes so cold that it is not always good for digestion. A friend of mine has what I consider an ideal way to keep water cool during the summer months. The ice rests upon a grate formed by a coil of steel pipes which are connected at the back of the refrigerator with the city water supply. There is a faucet in front from which water is taken just as it is from the faucet in the kitchen-sink. As the water passes through the coils it is cooled. This supplies cold water all the time in a sanitary way. These coils are just as clean as the water-pipes in our homes. I find it easy to keep the glass water-bottles and their stoppers clean by washing and scalding them frequently. No container should be used for drinking water unless it can be cleaned thoroughly.

I do not try to save ice by wrapping a blanket, paper, or anything around it. True, this will make the melting slower, but it decreases the efficiency of the refrigerator, since the covering holds the cold air near the ice, making it difficult for it to reach the food. Likewise the warm air cannot get to the surface of the ice readily, so it is cooled slowly. In other words, any covering about the ice interferes with the circulation of air, and, after all, if a refrigerator is not constructed so there is a continual movement of the cold and warm air within, it cannot do its work well.

Equal in importance to coolness in refrigeration is dryness. Unless the air is dry as well as cool the food will spoil quickly. Foods spoil when the microorganisms grow in it, and the purpose of the refrigerator, of course, is to check the growth of these. Fortunately they do not grow well when the temperature is 50 degrees Fahrenheit, or lower, and when the air is dry.

When the ice is placed in the box the air about it becomes cold and heavy. The warm air in the food-compartment rushes into the ice-chamber, thus forcing out the cold air, which falls to the bottom of the food-compartment and absorbs the heat from the food until the air becomes warm. Then it rushes into the ice-chamber and crowds out the cold air, which in turn drops about the food, again taking up the heat. It is this continual circulation of the air that helps keep the refrigerator dry and the food cool. Always the warm air rises and the cold air falls.

I place the foods requiring the lowest temperature, such as butter, cream, milk, and the water-bottles, on the lower shelf because the cold air always falls to the bottom of the refrigerator, making it the coolest place. Next above these I have the oil, eggs, lard, lettuce and other foods needing to be kept very cool. Directly over these I place the meats, leftovers and other supplies, always removing the wrappings so the cold air may come directly in contact with the food.

I never have any too much room in my refrigerator, so in order to make the best use of the space, I keep the food in dishes having straight sides, because more of them can be placed on one shelf than if bowls or other utensils with sloping sides were used.

On the top shelf I place the melons, bananas, onions, cheese and all other foods having a strong odor. Then these odors are taken by the warm air and carried into the ice-chamber and out of the refrigerator through the drain-pipe. One of my friends finds it practical to keep foods with strong odors in covered utensils in the refrigerator. She uses glass jars with lids, or dishes covered with paraffin paper.

Cleanliness is as essential to successful refrigeration as coolness and dryness. Whenever I spill a drop of anything on the shelves or walls, I wipe it up immediately with a cloth dampened in cool water. If it is a large spot I dry the surface with a towel when the spot is removed. I do this from day to day whenever it is necessary, and then give the refrigerator a complete washing once a week.

I do not use warm water as a rule, because it forms steam in the refrigerator; this condenses on the walls and does not evaporate at once even though the circulation of air is good. If I use warm water, I always wipe the walls and shelves with a dry towel when the washing is finished in an effort to remove as much of the moisture as possible.

I usually take a pan of cold water, add a few pinches of soda, wring a cloth quite dry from this, and wash the shelves and walls, drying with a towel. When I have completed the task the refrigerator is clean and dry.

I do not need to give the ice-chamber much attention. I caution the iceman not to give me dirty ice, and as I do not keep food in the ice-chamber nothing is spilled on or about the ice.

One of my neighbors has a small refrigerator in which the space for food is limited, so she places some food in covered utensils in the ice-chamber when there is room. No food should be placed directly upon the ice unless it is covered tightly in a receptacle. It not only causes rapid melting of ice, but it is not healthful, as all the odors passing over the ice in the warm air after circulating in the food-compartment are deposited on such foods.

The drain-pipe needs particular attention. I remove it once or twice a week and wash it with hot soap-suds, using a narrow, long-handled brush to cleanse the inside. When the pipe is clean I scald it, and after it cools somewhat I put it back in its proper place. The trap at the bottom of the drain-pipe may be cleaned easily with a brush and soap-suds. Unless this trap is cleaned odors from it may get into the food-chamber.

Little things count in the management of a refrigerator just as they do in anything else. For instance, I try to shorten the time the doors are open when getting the food out or putting it in because the open door lets out cold air and wastes ice. I know before the door is opened just what I wish to take out and I get it quickly.

My refrigerator responds to the care I give it. My ice bill is lower than it was before I understood how to care for the cold-storage plant of the home. I am better satisfied. And while the refrigerator is an economy because it helps to keep food from spoiling, it has another merit we may overlook. It is a step-saver. Look back if you will to the days before the refrigerator and picture how many steps were wasted daily in the journey between the kitchen and the cooler, cellar, or storage-place to which food was taken in an effort to keep it from spoiling quickly in warm weather. The refrigerator is a labor-saving device—a blessing because it makes housework easier. And I find much of its efficiency depends on the care it receives.

RICH MAN TURNS LABORER AGAIN

By EARLE C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff

LONDON, April 21.—A few weeks ago a country gentleman, living in a palatial residence, Austin Hopkinson M. P., is today living the life of a wage-earner bachelor in a tiny cottage alongside a canal.

He made the change voluntarily because he believes that sacrifices by those who are wealthy is the only way of avoiding a revolution in England.

Hopkinson is completing the "short sleeves to shirt sleeves" cycle in a single generation. He started as a coal miner, became an engineer, invented coal cutting machinery and today has contracts with almost all the large collieries in the country.

As a successful engineer and man of wealth he occupied Ryecroft Hall, a $150,000 mansion in Audenshaw, Lancashire, with a retinue of servants.

He recently built twenty houses costing $3500 each. He has now given his residence and three houses to the local council, unconditionally.

He disposed of his furniture, giving much of it away, and selling part at figures that made the transaction almost gifts. His car he gave to his chauffeur, who has started a taxi business with it. Now the M. P. when he wants the use of a car, pays his ex-chauffeur taxi rates for the use of his own machine.

Hopkinson had previously become famous in England by invention of something new in the profit-sharing line and for his model factory, where coal cutting machinery is made. The greater the profits of the plant the less money Hopkinson receives. After the profits reach a certain sum the owner ceases to receive any income from the plant, the whole of its earnings going to the workmen.

"I understand that you went over to Crimmon Gulch and lynched the wrong man the other day?"

"No," replied Three-fingered Sam, "you can't lynch the wrong cuss in Crimmon Gulch. We jest got Plute Pete a little bit ahead of his turn."

Some men are so constituted that they are kept too busy working over the wrongs of others to pay any attention to the rights of themselves.

Mount Chimborazo, Ecuador, South America, is the highest volcano in the world, 21,400 feet.

Some FACTS About

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit. They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921, and how many have been sold to retail customers in the United States:

	Produced	Delivered to Retail Customers
JANUARY	29,883	57,208
FEBRUARY	35,305	63,603
MARCH	61,886	87,221
Total Production	127,074	Total Retail Sales 208,032

Showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were it not for the dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

MADRIGAL CLUB IN SOCIAL SWIM

The Madrigal Club, of which Mrs. Charles A. Parker is the director and Mrs. Wright the accompanist, is getting very much in the social swim. Last week it was the guest of Mrs. John Cotton of San Rafael street for a musical and social afternoon, and this week it has been entertained at a luncheon given by Mrs. John Baum at her home on North Louise street. The participants report a very jolly time on both occasions and delicious things to eat. It is understood to have more social engagements for next week.

A. U. C. is an abbreviation for Anno Urbis Condite, or Arb Urbe Condita, meaning "In the year from the building of the city."

Creme weaves hold an important place in the French collections.

DOES "RESIDENCE" ALSO MEAN "HOME"?

(By International News Service)
NEW BEDFORD, Mass. April 21.—The fine distinction between the meanings of "residence" and "home" was the principle involved in the trial of Eugene H. Vien, millionaire proprietor of several hotels, accused of renting rooms to transients without requiring them to write their addresses in the register.

His attorneys argued that the guests' "residences" were the cities where they lived.

Special Judge James P. Doran, however, held with the policemen that the street addresses were necessary, and finding Vien guilty, fined him $100. Vien appealed.

The world is improving. Nowadays school children do not have copybooks in which they are made to write one hundred times such legends as "Man was made to mourn" in beautiful round-hand.

Colored laces are used in combination with a number of materials.

CENSORS' PERSONAL WHIMS AND EFFECTS

By CECIL B. de MILLE.
(Director-General of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.)

If censorship is established, what will it mean? What will be the results?

The partisans of censorship argue that censorship will protect the public from obscene, criminal and otherwise immoral matter conveyed by the screen. They claim that the youth of the country is being debauched by the photoplay and they blame everything from labor troubles to crime waves on motion pictures. According to the bluesivists, censorship will remedy all of these ills.

Censorship of the screen has been in effect in several states for several years—a sufficient period of time in which to judge of its results. Pennsylvania is perhaps the best known of these states because of the severity of its board of censorship.

Yet, despite this rigid supervision of what the people shall see on the screen, Pennsylvania does not seem to be appreciably better than its sister states. Crime continues and it is a question whether the children of the Quaker state are equipped with better morals than the children of California, for example. Prison records and juvenile court pages show very little difference.

The Paid Reformer

Before prohibition, professional reformers blamed all social ills on the liquor interests. Unquestionably, the saloon was responsible for many of the evils of that day. But the saloon has gone and it is up to the paid reformer to find other fields in which to carry on his work or retire from the public eye. The motion picture has been selected and wide-spread agitation for screen censorship is the result.

Because this country has suffered from a crime wave of considerable dimensions since the late war, the professional reformers promptly lay the blame at the door of motion pictures. Their ignorance of history is appalling or if they are familiar with the history of the United States, they fail to note that there was an identical wave of lawlessness following our civil war. Just who or what the reformers of that day blamed is unknown. But there were no motion pictures then!

What, then, will be the real results if censorship is established?

To the public, censorship will mean photoplays butchered beyond hope of recognition and the eventual halting of motion picture production. The photoplay has developed an artistic form of its own. Like the stage play and the novel, it has a dramatic entity that is the result of the finest possible artistic labor. The moment that finished product is tampered with, the smooth flow of the continuity is broken, the interest of the spectator is lost and the picture becomes a failure, unworthy of the art that produced it.

Public's Approval

The public today awards its approval and support only to the best of screen productions. It requires every ounce of artistry that the producers possess to make photoplays that will win the approbation of the public. If the pictures falls short of the high standard set by the public, that picture becomes a financial and artistic failure. And if a picture is to be cut and altered to meet the whims and fancies of a board of censors, it is bound to fall short of that standard.

It is well-nigh impossible to produce a motion picture that will not meet with some degree of condemnation from one source or another. By the same reasoning, it is impossible to produce a photoplay that will pass a board of censorship without being cut. It is the duty of the censors to censor and censor they will, whether the picture needs it or not. Censors are not divine; they are possessed of personal likes and dislikes. And the picture is made to suffer for these personal preferences. The case of the woman censor in one of the eastern states who has an aversion to funerals and insists on all scenes showing funeral services being deleted is an example of how large a part personal whims play in the working of censorship.

The public views these distorted pictures and blames the producer for the faulty construction of the photoplay. Because of this faulty construction the result of censorship cutting—the picture fails financially.

And sooner or later, the producer tires

COMMUNITY ESTATE; DECEDENT AND WIFE

You may be interested in the following excerpt from a recent letter received by this office from the commissioner of internal revenue:

"It is further contended in the claim, that under the laws of California all the assets which have been carried into the gross estate belonged to the community estate of the decedent and his wife, and that the bureau should not have held, on the review, that the wife's interest in the community property constituted a part of the decedent's estate. The bureau is aware that it has been recently decided by the United States district court for the southern division of the northern district of California, in the case of Blum, et al., vs. Wardell, collector, that the wife has more than a mere expectancy in the community property and that her interest therein does not form part of the deceased husband's estate.

"The government, however, does not acquiesce in this construction of the law, and has taken the case to a higher court. Consequently, the bureau will continue to include in the gross estate the entire value of such of the decedent's assets as may be community property under the laws of California, until the question has been finally decided in the courts."

URGE MOVIES AS AID TO FRENCH SCHOOLING

(By International News Service)

PARIS, April 21.—Every school in France will have its own moving picture machine and a supply of films, if M. Leon Berard, minister of public instruction, can induce the chamber of deputies to appropriate sufficient funds.

The department of public instruction now has at its disposal 200 machines, but Berard wants 36,000. The 200 are in constant use, some of them installed permanently in certain large schools, and others being constantly shifted about. A number of machines and 800,000 yards of films were taken over from the army after the war ended, but it was found that the reels used to distract soldiers' attention school children and a large part of them were thrown away.

MRS. LOTTIE LOGAN A GLENDALE BOOSTER

Mrs. Lottie Logan of Victoria drive, Los Angeles, who recently bought two lots on Fairview avenue, through the Glendale Realty company, is now negotiating with Mr. Rommel of the Rommel Construction company for the erection of a high-class bungalow which she will occupy as a home. She is so enthusiastic about our city that she has interested Mr. Ganz, a banker of Phoenix, Ariz., who spends part of the year in California, and he is looking over our city with a prospect that he too may buy here. He is one of the old timers of Arizona and has been in Phoenix for 47 years. Mrs. Logan also owns property on Hawthorne street.

INSCRIPTION ON LAKE BOTTOM A WARNING

(By International News Service)

GENEVA, April 21.—A severe drought is prevailing in Switzerland, and the Rhone and Rhine rivers have dwindled to half their normal size. At Gentoud the stone bottom of the lake has appeared, revealing this inscription, dated 1862: "When you see me again the world will be in tears." In Lake Thun a similar inscription has been revealed.

To Please Public

What every producer knows and what the paid reformers ignore is the fact that the American public will not stand for obscene, salacious or immoral pictures. The producer's initial object is to please the public. Only by pleasing the public can he score a success and make a profit.

The best and the only efficient censorship that can be established is the censorship of the American people. They are capable of judging for themselves and the producer is always willing to abide by the decision of the public.

IDEALIST CAN BE SEEN AS EXTERIOR FINISH

The house Charles Force is building at 1135 East Chestnut has as its exterior finish the new material, "Idealite," which makes a hard surface more nearly resembling stone than any other. It is absolutely water proof and practically indestructible. Builders wishing to economize in construction and at the same time secure an everlasting material for exterior finish should visit this house and examine the walls, noting the beauty of finish and solidity of construction.

GERMAN BUILDER TO NAME VESSEL "BOCHE"

(By International News Service)

BERLIN, April 21.—Hugo Stinnes, the multi-millionaire industrial magnate, who was so provoked by the refusal of shipyard workers in his yards at Flensburg to launch a vessel because it was named after Admiral Von Tirpitz, said that he would name the next large steamer Boche.

"ARTISTE" GUEST NEXT TUESDAY

Editor Glendale Press: Perhaps you know of Hollywood's wonderful Community Chorus, which meets every Tuesday night in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Hugo Kirchhofer.

Next Tuesday evening, April 26, Miss Edith is to be the "Artist" guest, and will give a most interesting program. I think Glendale will be glad to know of this through your paper. Miss Edith gave an evening for them last season also. Her appearance at this time is very interesting indeed. She is being sought by managers with most flattering offers; one, to tour Europe, but is declining them for the present as she has most interesting plans for her pupils in Glendale and Hollywood. Respectfully,

M. LINDSAY.

ARREST EIGHT AS ROBBERY SUSPECTS

(By International News Service)
DETROIT, Mich., April 21.—Surrounding a cottage at 116 East Montcalm street Wednesday night, federal officers arrested eight persons, four men and four women, for alleged complicity in the million-dollar Toledo postoffice robbery, February 17. The suspects were taken as they left the dwelling to enter a large touring car. The alleged robbers were dressed for a long journey. No resistance was offered. The suspects are held on charges of having violated the United States criminal code.

Federal officers have been working quietly on the case the last month. For two days the East Montcalm street house has been under surveillance and the decision to round up its occupants was reached Wednesday evening. With the capture of the alleged robbers here, 36 persons now have been arrested or indicted in connection with the Toledo robbery.

NOT REPRESENTED AT CONFERENCE

By EARLE C. REEVES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
LONDON, April 21.—Neither Belgium, Italy nor the United States will be represented at the conference at Hythe Saturday, the foreign office announced this afternoon. The foreign office specifically denied cabled reports from Washington that the United States was to participate in the conference. Occasion was also taken to deny the rumor that British troops are involved in the plans for an advance into the Ruhr valley.

The announcement came as a bombshell to political and diplomatic circles for it completely overturns all previous plans.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BUILDING

Vote Taken at Church Meeting Wednesday Night to Build New Structure

At a meeting of the First Congregational church last evening it was unanimously voted to erect a new church building. The meeting was largely attended and great enthusiasm was manifested. The matter has been in the minds of the people of the church for some time, but it is now thought that the time is ripe for such a project. It was felt by those present that a large church on North Central avenue is imperatively needed in order to minister properly to the people in that growing section of the city.

The present building is inadequate for the church school and the large congregations. Many times during the last few weeks large numbers of people have not been able to gain admittance to the Sunday morning service. The pastor of the church is Rev. Charles M. Calderwood, who came to Glendale last November from successful pastorates in New York city and New England. He is a tireless worker and the church has made marked progress since he came. He is a native of Iowa and received his education at Grinnell College and Yale University.

HERE'S A DISTRESSFUL TALE ABOUT A CAT

(By International News Service)
DENVER, April 21.—A distressed alley cat refused to be rescued by fire fighters after creating havoc with traffic at Seventeenth and Champa streets, in the heart of the downtown Denver district.

Automobiles were jammed from four directions, several hundred persons congregated, street car traffic was blocked, and fire apparatus called out when the cat was discovered in a sewer.

Mrs. S. W. Gillespie first heard the howling feline and attempted to rescue it through a manhole. When "kitty" wouldn't respond to her calls, she rang in the fire alarm. When the trucks arrived Mrs. Gillespie was crouching over the manhole with a piece of fish in her hand. "Kitty, kitty," she pleaded, and dropped the fish.

With a bound the cat grabbed the fish and retreated into the recesses of the sewers, while intrepid fire fighters endeavored to persuade it to come out for air. All their efforts were futile.

"MUSIC WEEK" FOR MUSIC CLUBS

The "Music Week" planned at a conference of the heads of the various music clubs of the Los Angeles district federation on Tuesday is not a "Los Angeles Music Week," but an event to be celebrated by every city in the Los Angeles district. The last week in May has been chosen for this event.

Mrs. Charles L. Marlenee is actively engaged in plans for Glendale's adequate observance of music week. Among these plans are the exchange of high school orchestras by this city and Pasadena, in order that each may get an idea of the work of the other; and a community chorus for Glendale under the leadership of a very prominent director who has signified his willingness to lend his services to Glendale for this event. It is likely that the chamber of commerce will be invited to cooperate with Mrs. Marlenee and her committee in this latter plan.

NO ARMY PLANES ARE MISSING

(By International News Service)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 21.—An airplane found a few days ago near Vega de Los Lardones, Coahuila, Mexico, with the mangled body of a man lying beside it, is believed to be the abandoned plane of Lieut. Alexander Pearson, jr., who became lost in a flight from this city two months ago and made a forced landing in Mexico, according to the headquarters of the eighth army corps area.

A check of army planes fails to show any missing. General Dickman believes that if it is not Pearson's plane, which has been found, the plane is one owned by some civilian aviator. The Mexican government has sent a detachment of soldiers to ascertain the number of the plane, if any, and notify General Dickman. It was impossible to identify the body as it had been mangled by birds and wolves. It is thought to be that of a peon who became lost and died of thirst.

Memorial Day, or Decoration Day, originated in a custom of women of the south to decorate the graves of the dead with flowers in spring.
